

superNature Bio

The sound of Annie Lennox possessed by Nina Hagen with a touch of David Lynch's inclination for darkness and the obvious quaintness of the Creature from the Black Lagoon.

superNature is an international alternative, pop, rock project founded by Canadian eccentric, singer/songwriter Kim Hines and experimental European producer Cazy a.k.a. Carsten Schmidt. Often referred to as "The Eurythmics of the new millennium" and with a musical style vaguely reminiscent of bands like Goldfrapp, Moloko, No doubt and Garbage. superNature's music boasts infectious rhythms, originally crafted electronic sounds, bold electric guitars, soulful bass, warm sounding acoustic guitars, and even the occasional cello.

"superNature tears you in every direction at once - ripped raw emotion, high drama, tongue-in-cheek humour from Kim's lips caressing then possessing then molesting the slick, sharp, subtle siren sound of Cazy's music beneath. Scary and yet beguiling. Sweet pain."

-Neville Farmer Music Director of award winning Lonely Planet Series U.K.

superNature is Kim Hines and Cazy*. In the year 2000 Kim and a fellow musician walked into Cazy's studio in Germany for the first time and began recording the initial tracks for a Canadian/European project. Kim would eventually relinquish the project in favor of working with Cazy. Not an easy task when living in two different parts of the world, Kim had to make three separate journeys from Canada to Cazy's Cologne studio. The final of these time limited, intense, thirty day recording sessions resulted in their first full-length cd angry red planet.

Today superNature is predominately based out of Europe (London England) with their studio in Germany, but thanks to them living on opposite sides of "The pond" they have the luxury of a second musical home base in North America which also enables them to be active and available for touring in Canada and the U.S.A.
